

IGSH-2016 Summer School Application Announcement

This year's Summer School will be conducted from September 14 to 28, 2016, at Ruhr University of Bochum, Germany. The course focus will be on 'Groundwater and Agriculture' from different perspectives will be instructed by different professors from inside and outside of Ruhr University of Bochum, Germany.

Application for the Summer School consists of 2 steps which both must be made until Tuesday, 15 March 2016. Applications received after this deadline will not be considered.

- 1) Online application. The following link directs to the online application form:

<http://www.hydrology-summerschool.de/registration.html>

A Statement of Motivation of not more than 3000 characters is also required to be filled in the space provided within the online application form.

- 2) In addition to this online application, a very brief CV (maximum of two pages with double spacing) needs to be attached to the email addressed of IGSH – igsh@rub.de . It must clearly show your academic background (be specific!) and degree (M.Sc., B.Sc., PhD etc.), title (Prof., Dr., Mr., Ms, Mrs etc.), work experience earned in each former position, your current institution, position and responsibility, and addresses of two potential contact references, one referee to witness your professional experience and another one who witnesses your academic competence. Make your CV as short as possible (not more than two pages). Your CV should address all the mentioned information.

Selected applicants will be notified by April 15, 2016. Following the notification, participants in return must confirm their participation until April 30, 2016.

Please find attached the 2016 course program.

Self-sponsored and course scholarship applications are highly encouraged.